SAN QUENTIN (UPI)—Jose Angel Gonzalez, who buried alive a girl he thought he'd already killed, was executed today in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Katanga Troops Shock Senator With Beatings

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, The Congo (UPI)—Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said today he was "shocked" by the action of a mob of Katangese troops who dragged two high United Nations officials away from a party he was attending Tuesday night and beat them with rifle butts.

"I guess this is the Congo after all," added Dodd, who has been a leading defender of Katanga in the United States.

Dodd witnessed part of the incident when the Katangese invaded the home of a local oil company executive who was hosting the party for Dodd. They seized U. N. officials George Ivan Smith and Brian Urquhart, and then clubbed and beat them up.

Smith suffered possible broken ribs and Urquhart suffered cuts and bruises. Dodd was reported "deeply upset" by the attack.

Acting U. N. Secretary General Thant immediately sent a cable from New York demanding "public apologies" from the Katangese government for the "crazed" actions of the troops and asking swift and "severe punishment" for the guilty ones.

In the wake of Tuesday night's assault, a U. N. Indian Gurkha soldier was found slain this morning near the home of Katanga President Moise Tshombe and a Gurkha major was missing.

In another unrelated incident, the U. N. command in Leopoldville, announced that William Rose, 28, Philadelphia, a U. N. civilian administrator in Goma, was seized and held hostage for several hours this morning by Central Congolese army troops in that Kivu Province town.

The incident occurred when the Congolese tried to enter the Goma airfield and were repulsed in a short fight by U. N. Malayan troops. One Congolese was killed and six captured. The Congolese then went into the town, kidnapped Rose and threatened to kill him unless the prisoners were released. The prisoners and Rose finally were exchanged.

Stopped Car
Smith, an Australian and senior U. N. official in Katanga Province, said Tuesday night's incident happened this way:
He and Urquhart, a Briton, driving in Smith's car, were stopped by Katangese soldiers three or four houses away from their destination, the home of Sheridan Smith, a local oil company executive.

Smith said he and Urquhart managed to edge their way into the house through a hostile crowd of soldiers, but the para-commandos among the troops sent for reinforcements and later forced their way inside.

Reservists May Get a Short Term

President Says Full 12 Months Is Not Certain

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy said today that military reservists called to duty in the Berlin crisis may not have to serve a full 12 months.

The President emphasized at a news conference that such citizen soldiers were called up to prevent, not fight, a war.

At his first meeting with reporters in three weeks, Kennedy strongly defended the call-up of reservists and National Guardsmen although he conceded that some of them are living under unsatisfactory conditions and not training with the best possible equipment.

He said, however, that they were serving the cause of peace just as effectively as any Strategic Air Command bomber on a 15-minute alert.

The chief executive told newsmen that despite any published reports to the contrary, none of the reservists would serve more than 12 months. He then went on to say that every effort was being made to return them to civilian life in less time if possible.

Kennedy also said he is considering a trip out of the country before the end of the year. He would not disclose his possible destination, saying the plans still were tentative. A quick trip to South America was the prime possibility.

Said he saw no prospect of greater harmony between the North Atlantic Treaty and Communist Warsaw Pact blocs until there have been meaningful, fruitful negotiations with Russia over Berlin and West Germany.

Said there was no purpose in considering a trip to Russia until East-West tensions over Berlin and Southeast Asia have been relaxed measurably. He said he had never received an invitation to visit Russia.

Said the United States would be most concerned if Fidel Castro's Cuban forces tried to overthrow another Latin American government.

He indicated in response to questions that such action might result in U. S. operations similar to those of last week when naval forces were sent into international waters near the Dominican Republic.

Reiterated his pleasure at being able to communicate his views to the people of Russia through the interview published Tuesday in Izvestia, the official Soviet government newspaper.

Said the assignment of Chester Bowles as his special representative for matters involving Africa, Asia and Latin America provided an opportunity for "much more effective use of his obvious talents than in the day to day administration of the State Department."

Heating, Control Troubles Chop Mercury Trial

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The United States rocketed a little chimpanzee named Enos into orbit today and sent him whirling two times around the globe before technical difficulties developed and the space cabin was returned to earth.

The capsule landed 500 miles south of Bermuda at 10:28 a.m. PST. The chimp was safe, Project Mercury officials said.

Two destroyers were reported headed toward the capsule.

Mercury scientists said ground tracking stations detected increasing heat in an electrical inverter as well as problems in the attitude control system as the capsule whizzed across the Pacific Ocean toward Canton Island in its second orbital sweep.

The first orbit and about half of the second went fine.

At 10:42 a.m., NASA said both destroyers reported they were about 30 miles from the floating capsule and estimated they would pull alongside it in about one hour. NASA said the capsule still continued to float well and weather in the area was excellent.

The retro rockets were fired at 10:08 a.m. PST to slow the capsule from its 17,500-mile an hour orbital speed and send it on a red hot plunge through earth's atmosphere.

The capsule was supposed to land in a target area about 500 miles south of Bermuda. A recovery force sent into the area for such an emergency stood by to recover the spacecraft and its animal passenger after the planned parachute descent into the ocean.

Capsule Starts Down
The capsule was detected on its downward path by the tracking station at Guaymas, Mexico, and Corpus Christi, Tex.

The emergency did not mean the flight was a failure. Scientists had prepared well for the possibility they might not make three full orbits on the first try. When recovery ships were sent out, they were strung across the Atlantic Ocean to cover landing areas where the capsule would descend in case it was brought down after one, two or three orbits.

Enos was supposed to circle the earth three times.

Enos' job in space was to bang a series of levers similar to a vending machine. He got banana-flavored pellets and water for satisfactory performances, and a shock in the foot when he erred.

"He hasn't missed a trick yet," an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced.

Test of Efficiency

The tests were designed to prove how efficiently Enos could operate under conditions of prolonged weightlessness, one of the biggest bugaboos confronting astronauts.

NEWS in BRIEF

TOKYO (UPI)—Red China took another backhand slap at Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today by renewing its praise of the "correct leadership" of Albanian Communist Boss Enver Hoxha.

A message marking the 17th anniversary of Albania's postwar "liberation" repeated the Chinese statement that Red Albania is "a glorious member of the great socialist community" from which Khrushchev is trying to exclude the tiny European satellite.

PARIS (UPI)—More than 350,000 striking railwaymen returned to work early today, ending the biggest labor tie-up in France since President Charles de Gaulle took office in 1958.

De Gaulle called cabinet meeting to discuss the 24-hour strike of employees of the state-run railways and utility companies. The electricity and gas works went back to work Tuesday night.

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States and Britain today sought to determine whether Russia intends to stand pat on its proposal for an uncontrolled ban on nuclear testing.

Chief U. S. negotiator Arthur H. Dean and Joseph Godber, head of the British team, feared that further negotiations here might be pointless.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy was informed during his news conference today that chimpanzee Enos had been launched into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

He then provoked loud laughter from reporters by telling them with a wry smile: "This chimpanzee... flying in space, took off at 10:08. He reports everything going perfectly and working well."

BURBANK (UPI)—Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight was feeling much better today despite an attack of viral hepatitis which was expected to slow down his campaign for governor.

Russ Distorted Kennedy Reports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American officials said today the Soviet news agency Tass distributed a distorted, editorialized version of the interview President Kennedy granted Izvestia editor Alexei Adzhubei.

They said the agency's Russian-language summary omitted several major points the President made and submerged his remarks on other issues to the argumentative comments of the interviewer.

Adzhubei stuck by his promise to publish the full text in Izvestia, the official government newspaper, which claims circulation of four million. For this the President publicly expressed gratitude.

However, the Tass summary, which is the only version available to the remaining 200 million Russians, dismayed those here who hoped Kennedy had blasted a real hole in the Iron Curtain.

In Bad Light

In general it left the impression of Kennedy as "evasive" and on the defensive against Adzhubei's skillful questions based on "concrete examples."

U. S. officials cited the following major omissions in the Tass Russian language summary for the home audience:

—The President's charge that Russia had violated the Yalta and Potsdam agreements by never allowing the people of the East European satellite countries to vote freely on what form of government they wanted.

—Kennedy's statement that the Soviet Union broke the moratorium on nuclear tests after preparing for new blasts while it was still negotiating with Britain and the United States at Geneva on a possible test ban treaty.

—His claim that the Berlin problem stems in large part from the Soviet refusal to agree to reunification of Germany.

Tass Version

Tass said simply that Kennedy refused to "reckon with the fact of the existence of two German states."

As an example of distortion, U. S. officials cited the Tass handling of the section on Cuba, in which the President charged Premier Fidel Castro with breaking his promises to hold free elections. Tass reported as follows:

"The Soviet journalist was interested to know whether the President admits that U. S. interference in the affairs of Cuba was a mistake. Kennedy persisted in justifying the policy of his country with regard to its small but heroic neighbor."

Treasury Stops Sale of Silver By JFK Order

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Treasury stopped selling silver today, but it won't affect the value of your money.

President Kennedy ordered the halt. It is part of a package of moves designed to take the Treasury out of silver trading for the first time in history and to establish a free, commodity-type silver market.

A rise in the price of silver, quoted at 93.94 cents an ounce on the London market in recent days, is widely expected.

The Treasury's sales of silver at 91-92 1/4 cents, and its purchases at 90 1/2 cents, have prevented genuine free-market trading in this country.

Producers are pleased about the prospect of a higher price. Consumers are hopeful it won't go very much higher and that in the long run a free market will be to their advantage.

SPECIAL BOARD MEETING

One-Way Traffic to Head Chamber Agenda

One way traffic on Palm Canyon Drive and Indian Avenues will head the agenda of a special Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce board meeting tomorrow morning at eight.

The chamber board has heard adverse recommendations on the traffic control suggestion from the Retail Merchants Association and the Hotel and Apartment Owners Association. It will hear reports from the Palm Springs Realty Board and the Coachella Valley Contractors Association at the morning meeting.

The special meeting was called by the board to take care of business which could not be completed at the last meeting.

The board will also hear discussions on a proposal for the City of Palm Springs to name a traffic study commission to make an all-over analysis of the local traffic problem.

Also on the agenda will be reports from the Hotel and Apartment Owners Association, the Retail Merchants, the publicity department and a nominating committee report.

Dominican Troops Use Gas

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—Combat troops hurled tear gas today at sniveling street mobs that threatened to overwhelm army tanks and troops patrolling downtown Santo Domingo.

The troops also used noise bombs to hold off the demonstrators but withheld gunfire. Alarmed opposition leaders ordered their followers off the street and order was restored.

Emergency conferences between government and opposition chiefs started at the palace to break the deadlock over who is to run the country until general elections can be held.

The presidential yacht Angelita, ordered to return from European waters because of reports the Trujillos smuggled $90 million out of the country aboard it, anchored at the small port of Caldera, 75 miles from here.

First reports, from navy sources, said authorities had so far found five suitcases and a small hand package crammed with $1,000 bills.

Twelve passengers were aboard the yacht, used by ousted Army Chief Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo to flee the country earlier this month. One was identified as Andres Alva Jr., a nephew of the widow of the late strongman, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo.

The navy ordered the yacht into Santo Domingo for a more thorough search.

The city was returning to normalcy by noon after a morning of repeated clashes between heavily armed troops and mobs in a showdown struggle over control of the government.

Strike leaders shouted determination to continue their campaign to overthrow President Joaquin Balaguer.

Council Adopts Airport Budget

The city council has adopted an interim $4445 budget for the airport, to carry the city operation through December.

Items included are salaries for administrator Delmar Canady and a clerk, plus office overhead and incidental services contracted for by the administration. A new budget for the last half of the fiscal year will be adopted, probably in December.

The council, reminded by Councilwoman Mary Carlin that the Dec. 12 vote must be canvassed, set a meeting Dec. 19, in place of the normal meeting date of Dec. 26. The regular date would fall on the day after Christmas. During the Dec. 19 meeting, the council will hold a hearing on the spread of assessment for district 46.

Modify Ordinance

The council, jolted by Councilman George Beebe Jr., picked up a planning commission request for modification of the proposed underground utility ordinance pending before the council, and passed on first reading an ordinance requiring underground utility services to unsubdivided areas. Exempted from the requirement are 33,000 volt transmission lines and 2,000 kilowatt lines. Included are gas, electric, phone, and television services. A public hearing was set for Dec. 11.

A Dec. 11 hearing was also set for the ordinance rezoning mountainous areas in Section 30, south of East Palm Canyon Drive. The new ordinance will prohibit erection of commercial buildings trailer placement higher than 20 feet above the lowest spot in the one-eighth sections of the approximate mile frontage involved.

Dog Law

The council squeaked through the new misdemeanor ordinance against allowing unlicensed dogs to run loose on a 4-3 vote. Vice mayor Kenneth Kirk voted against it, saying dog owners couldn't keep their pets from jumping the fence to freedom now and then.

Mayor Frank Bogert, who opposed the measure, grinned at Councilwoman Mary Carlin and said "If I see that moth-eaten poodle of yours out, I'll have him picked up in five minutes."

Mrs. Carlin, picking up the easy banter, laughingly replied that "he was picked up once; that was when he bit the dog-catcher."

The council approved rezoning of lots on the north side of Baristo Road between Tahquitz and Caahuilla from R-1a to R-2.

Contracts Awarded

Eliminated from the ordinance was the requirement for dense planting and four-and-a-half-foot wall recommended by the city planning commission. Added was architectural approval of the structures to be built under the new ordinance.

Contracts awarded included: Resurfacing of Tachevah Drive and Paseo Dorotea, Hicks and Allred, $6,750; improvement of Avenida Caballeros, Hicks and Allred, $39,154.90; improvement of Alejo Road, under Assessment District 36, Hicks and Allred, $10,151.94; and dressing room additions at the polo grounds, Bertson L. Lamb Construction Co., $11,725.

Buy Cars

The council approved the Imperial Motors low bid for five Dodge police interceptor vehicles for $8,899.40, and one undercover car for $2,392. The council acted over objections of Tom Henderson, Brand Ford representative, who called for awarding the bid to his firm, a local business. The Brand bid was $732 higher than the Imperial bid.

Councilman Beebe told Henderson that sales tax payments were not a factor, because businesses "collect the tax — they don't pay it." The council, which had adopted a policy of giving bids to local bidders only when the bid is

Absentee Ballot Deadline Given

Tuesday, Dec. 5 is the last day for absentee ballots to be requested or picked up for the Dec. 12 special election, Shirley Henry, city clerk, reiterated today.

Qualified voters who will be away from town or are physically incapable of visiting designated polling places are eligible for absentee balloting, she explained. Absentee ballots are required to be deposited in the city clerk's office by 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9. A clerk of the office will be on duty through that day to receive incoming ballots.

Persons wishing to cast absentee ballots may either write City Clerk, care of City Hall, 3200 McCallum Way, or call in person. Ballots may be cast in the clerk's office, or mailed.

The Dec. 12 special election will determine the question of whether the city's seven councilmanic districts, will be re-designated to make them of more equal size.

Dick Nixon Not At GOP Forum

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was among the missing Tuesday night at a forum for Republican candidates for the California governorship and his absence caused a stir among the Philharmonic Auditorium audience, largely composed of GOP precinct workers.

Only two of the four announced candidates showed up, Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell and former Lt. Gov. Harold J. (Butch) Powers.

Nixon was represented by a member of his campaign staff,

Bought Cigaret Pack, Got Back $49.70 Change

A Riviera hotel visitor bought a pack of cigarettes from a lobby machine and got back $49.70 change last night, Mrs. Pauline Nelson, cashier, reported.

The well-dressed man, who called himself a "Doctor Rosen," walked to Mrs. Nelson's desk and asked for change for cigarettes. He then slid a $100 bill over the counter.

While the change was being counted to him, the alleged doctor asked if "the other cashier is on duty." Mrs. Nelson called a fellow cashier by name, and the suspect agreed "that's the one." He had some medicine for her, he said.

After the brief conversation, he bought cigarettes from the vending machine, and quickly turned to say he didn't want all the change in bills. He then asked for his $100 bill back, counting out two $20 bills and one $10 bill, which he placed on top of a $50 already lying on the cashier's desk.

Mrs. Nelson swept the $100 into the cash box, gave the man his $100 bill. Moments later, she realized the cash box was $50 short, and that she hadn't given the suspect a $50 bill for change. It belonged to the house.

James Reynolds, who apologized for the candidate's absence due to a "prior commitment."

A Nixon spokesman said the former vice president had notified Republican leaders both in person and by letter last month that he would be unable to attend the meet.

Nixon was unable to avoid a prior commitment to meet Tuesday night with New York publishers of his forthcoming book, the spokesman said.

The fourth candidate, former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, was represented by his press secretary Bob Voight, who explained that Knight was hospitalized with viral hepatitis.

At the conclusion of statements by the candidates or their representatives, questions were submitted in writing from the audience and Reynolds was asked: "Where is Richard Nixon tonight? I think he should be here."

Reynolds replied, "I don't keep his calendar."

Then he added, "It is unfortunate that Mr. Nixon is not here. He sincerely regrets it."

In his prepared statement earlier, Reynolds said the former vice president was not on hand because he "filled his calendar before he knew he was going to run for governor."

Assemblyman Shell drew laughter from the audience of about 900 when he said in his prepared statement, "I felt it important enough to be here tonight to have shuffled my calendar for some weeks back."

Powers made no direct reference to Nixon, rather pointedly omitting him when he prefaced his remarks by saying, "I salute Joe Shell for being here to explain his views. Goodie Knight has our sympathy and I wish him a speedy recovery. He's been a great public servant."

Contractor Conference Will Hear Gov. Volpe

Governor John A. Volpe of Massachusetts will be one of the principal speakers at the Associated General Contractors annual three-day "Holiday Conference" which opens Friday at the El Mirador.

Volpe spent his entire business career in the contracting business before his election as governor last year. He resigned as national president of AGC when he took office.

USC Alumni to Meet Tonight

Coachella Valley (University of Southern California) Alumni Club tonight will hear a report on the progress at the university's master plan at a meeting at the Committee of Twenty Five Club, 421 W. Alejo Rd., from former USC academic vice president, Dr. A. S. Rubenstein.

A film of the Master Plan entitled "Old Dreams, New Plans," will be shown. Dr. Rene Belle, SC professor of French, will speak on "What Shall Johnny Read?"

Election of officers will conclude the meeting. Cal Brown, 695 Paseo El Mirador, is president of the club and tonight's program was arranged by Don Di Silvestri, 1465 Vaquero Rd.

MICKY COHEN walks away from the Hall of Justice after he was released from Los Angeles County jail on $10,000 bond pending his trial with four others on murder conspiracy charges. He is also free on $100,000 bail from Alcatraz prison on a federal income tax conviction. (UPI Photo).

Rodeo Board in Meeting Tonight

The Rodeo Board of the Palm Springs Mounted Police will meet tonight at Los Compadres Club to discuss season's plans at 7:30. Capt. Clare Ballagh of the organization announced.

He also said that the party, originally planned for next Saturday night, had been postponed to January 6.

Planners Hear CD Coordinator

Col. Melville Stark, civil defense coordinator for Riverside County, Monday night urged a calm approach to the threat of nuclear warfare when he addressed the Coachella Valley Advisory Planning Committee in their regular meeting at Palm Desert.

He warned his listeners that the cold war may go on indefinitely and due to the long period of suspense, "we could all become psychiatric cases" unless we resist hysteria.

Col. Stark said that the effects of atomic warfare can be tremendous but that some of the predictions lean too far on the terrifying side. Even the experts are in disagreement on radiation's effect.

Fifteen Die In Explosion

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A gas explosion wrecked a welfare center here Tuesday, killing at least 15 persons, injuring 54 and causing damage estimated at $800,000.

Police said 15 bodies had been recovered from the rubble of the federal Social Security Institute's four-story social security and family welfare center in downtown Mexico City.

Although he cautioned his audience that calmness was the best approach, he added that this did not mean that they should abandon the building of fallout shelters if they can be afforded.

Warning to be Short

Warning of a nuclear attack will be short, the speaker said. After detection of an approaching missile heading for the United States at 18,000 miles an hour, "we cannot expect more than 15 minutes warning at the most," he said.

He declared that even if March Air Force base is the target of an attack, many lives in Coachella Valley can be saved if proper precautions are taken.

He urged attendance at civil defense schools now starting in the county so that all may be better informed of what action to take in the event of an attack.

Alphabet Tops 'New' System of Reading

NEW YORK (UPI)—An experimental edition of a "revolutionary" theory in reading instruction reached the bookstores this month, 23 years after its first use and 13 years after the death of its author, a noted professor of linguistics.

It starts out by teaching youngsters the alphabet.

From there the learner begins to spell out three-letter words.

The Bloomfield system was devised by Dr. Leonard Bloomfield, Sterling Professor of Linguistics at Yale at the time of his death in 1949. He passed it on to dictionary editor Clarence L. Barnhart for use with his own child.

Barnhart, listed as co-author of the published version "Let's Read" (Wayne University Press) tells in a foreword of their long unsuccessful attempt to find a university school of education or a publisher willing to give the method a trial under controlled conditions. Its only major use has been in parochial schools in Chicago.

Bloomfield's system is called a linguistic approach, and Barnhart defines that as essentially the reparation of "the problem of word-meaning." A child beginning school is presumed to know the meaning of anywhere from 5,000 to 25,000 words, and if he doesn't, teaching him to read them won't solve the problem, the authors say.

The system uses phonetics but does not teach them to the child. And Bloomfield, in an introductory essay, says he is not much concerned with the content of their reading.

"Aside from their silliness, the stories in a child's first reader are of little use, because the child is too busy with the mechanics of reading to get anything of the content," he writes.

By the time a child is through the 275 lessons of this volume,

1962 Seattle World Fair's Easy to Find

By MARTIN HEERWALD
SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Visitors won't have any trouble spotting the site of the 1962 Seattle
World's Fair, whether they arrive by land, sea or air.

They can't miss the symbol of the space age show, a 600-foot steel structure mounted with a revolving, saucer-shaped restaurant, and capped by a flaming gas torch. Fair officials have named the spectacular spire the Space Needle, and already it is
graphed item of the fair's extensive array of futuristic show-pieces.

Lady of Steel
The needle, shaped like a gigantic, modern sculpture of a full-gowned lady of steel with an extremely narrow waist, rises from the 74-acre fairgrounds at the foot of Queen Anne hill to an elevation that will place viewers 150 feet higher than the hill crest.

In fact, if there's anything in all of Seattle higher than a visitor stop the Space Needle, it's flying.

Fair officials expect more than 10 million visitors between the opening and closing dates of the show, April 21 and Oct. 21, and it's a good bet that practically all but those suffering acrophobia or heart trouble will take the trip to the top.

One of the jokes going the local rounds has another restaurant, called the Chicken - Out Inn, planned for the bottom of the spire.

Well, How Do You Feel About Hats?

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Arnold Lippman, president of the Hat Council, Inc., thinks all men should wear hats but he's kind to those who don't.

"We don't really take a belligerent attitude toward the hatless," he said. "It's more like a feeling of compassion. In the meantime we try to win them over by making hats better looking."

He sighed and muttered "But only if we could just legislate..." He didn't finish the sentence but probably was thinking about Queen Elizabeth I of England, who passed a law in 1558 com-PELLING every person of the middle classes over seven years old to wear a hat on Sundays or holidays or be fined.

Easy Living Models
Failing legislation, the hat industry has come up with what it calls "easy living" models to win over the men who go hatless even in storms, blizzards and monsoons.

Lippman displayed some of them at the Fifth Avenue headquarters of the Council, which represents most of the hat manufacturers of the United States.

One was of Orton pile in a pale tan with a knitted band and looked as if it might have been made from the fleece lining of an overcoat. It also came in olive. He demonstrated one made of men's suiting, a sort of olive heavy tweed with red and blue overplaid and a black knit band. Another was an olive velour telescope (a telescope is where the hat is pushed down flat on top) with a cord band and feathered decorations where Tyrolean types normally have brushes.

"We can always sell the staples, but 'Easy Living' is the new thing," he said. "Why 'Easy Living' headwear is the big hope of mankind to get away from it all."

Lippman, president of his own hat company, Men's Hats Inc., of Baltimore, said this sports wear is about 20 per cent of the total volume of hat sales but is growing where the standard felt models are just holding their own. He also showed some of the hats which will be on the market next spring. The feature was a completely crushable sports type of

Champion Sees Stable Tax Rate

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Hale Champion, state finance director, said Tuesday there would be no tax cuts in the coming year and predicted a balanced budget would be possible.

In a news conference, Champion said California's 1961-62 budget would be "tight," but added it would contain $125 to $130 million for new construction. Most of the construction funds would be for educational purposes, he said.

The director also noted it might be necessary to have another bond issue to help finance the state's construction program.

wide and hadn't changed in years.

This year the moderates are wearing brims 1½ to 1¾ inches wide with the extreme set at 1¾. The young and flashy are down to 1½ to 1¾ with some of the real flashy ones wearing them down to one inch, mostly curl. Older men like them 2 to 2½ inches wide.

A problem is that big men are apt to look like little boys if they wear narrow brims. One company (Adams) solved this by graduating the brims and crown in a "vari-dimensional" line to fit the man.

Almost every hat manufacturer was inspired by the blizzards of last year and is showing Cossack-type fur hats this fall. One company (Cavanagh) carefully eschews any Russian-sounding names and puts out a "Pillbox," a cuffed "Alaskan" and a tall "Macmillan" in furs ranging from lambskin through seal and Persian lamb. Prices range from $15 in lambskin to $79.50 plus tax in Persian lamb. Colors range through grey, black and brown. Note of warning: wives steal them.

Shelters for 50 Million Due in June

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — The Kennedy administration expects to complete by next June—six months ahead of schedule—a federal program for community fallout shelters to protect some 50 million Americans.

This was reported by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger shortly after President Kennedy completed an all-day round of conferences with key advisers on civil defense, military spending and foreign trade.

While Salinger would not comment in detail on policy planning discussed with respect to the military budget and America's future in world commerce, he gave these specifics about civil defense:

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, whose department has been running the program since last August, reported to Kennedy "on the status of the identifying, locating and stocking of shelter areas for some 50 million Americans" with some $200 million already provided by Congress.

This program was to have been completed by December 1962, "but progress has been at a very rapid rate and it will finish six months ahead of schedule, by June of 1962."

The meeting carried the civil defense program "further ahead." It also "went a long way toward" ending widespread confusion over whether shelters should be built by the government or by private individuals and whether they should be large ones for community protection or family size.

The government "definitely before the end of the year" will distribute a long-heralded booklet to American households explaining steps to be taken for protection from radiation fallout in case of nuclear attack.

After stuffing your turkey, sew the bird with dental floss. The nylon floss holds better than thread and won't crumble or tear on removal. It slips through meat more easily than ordinary thread.

Buried Program Of Murder in All Humanity

Science Today
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 39-year-old Dr. Walter Bromberg put into the scientific study of criminals left no doubt in his mind that there is "a buried program of murder in all humanity."

The most law-abiding of citizens when looking at murderers may say to themselves with complete accuracy, "There but for the grace of God, go I," he said. Bromberg was expounding on the dark depths of the human mind which though operating unconsciously, can and does operate commandingly. The criminal and the law-abider may have the same impulses and fantasies in those dark depths.

The difference between them is that the criminal "acts out" the impulses and fantasies which the law-abider "represses and abhors." Anyone can see that most if not all people have them. Just look at the public's absorption in crimes of violence — how these crimes keep them glued to newspapers and TV sets.

Notes Figures Of Speech

But if anyone still had any doubt, listen to the common figures of speech. Bromberg continued, "A well used tennis ball is 'dead'; a play-off in a golf match is called 'sudden death'; a marksman is a 'dead shot'; a player in any game who falls behind is a 'dead duck'."

"We say 'He slays me' of a comedian; a 'dying cause' or a 'dead issue' for a lost proposition; a bill was 'killed' in committee; the 'dead' of night; he was caught 'dead to rights'; 'Let's kill some time'; or 'he murdered the music' or the team was 'slaughtered'."

There are two statistical facts which are not to be ignored, he said. The homicide rate in the United States remains more or less constant year after year. Some 80 per cent of murders brought to justice are "normal" by psychiatric or any other definition.

"Justice" for murderers works this way:

"We are careful that no truly insane person is punished because the latter is the unwitting carrier of our own fantasies and impulses. Freeing him from criminal responsibility, frees us all. (But) the wrath of society may be fully visited upon the sane, responsible criminal, while society has cleansed itself of its own aggressive impulses through projection to the insane person."

Directed Court Clinic

Bromberg was a long-term director of the famous psychiatric clinic of New York City's Court of General Sessions which as a matter of routine examines the mental process of all newly convicted felons. He now is active in promoting mental health, particularly as a consultant of the California state Department of Mental Hygiene.

He has put his "psychiatric study of homicide" into "The Mod of Murder," a scientific book.

Can homicide be prevented; he asked, and answered his question, yes, but it would take a lot of doing. The public would have to be educated in "the intimate relationships" between the minds of the killer and the law-abider.

"Television and newspapers could do it," he said. Their crime dramas could be made to "show those inner fantasies which tie the reader to crime stories and glue the viewer to criminal presentations." The reporters of these crime dramas should report the psychological cosmos of crime "so that law-abiders 'will not be able so easily to isolate themselves from the crime being depicted and so easily dismiss it from their minds.'"

He Would Provide Champagne

Thinking of having a pool-side champagne party? Well, a recent visitor to our resort city would be happy to supply the champagne, and if necessary, could fill the pool with the bubbly stuff for those who like to swim and imbibe at the same time.

Henry J. Vandervoort of San Francisco is said to be the largest importer of wines on the West Coast. He and his wife elected to spend a short vacation here at the Biltmore Hotel.

Born into the wine business, the family owns property and vineyards near Bordeaux, France. Vandervoort moved to San Francisco following World War II. There he joined Peter Bercut, also of France, and started the Bercut-Vandervoort Wine Company.

Following the Vandervoort's departure, it has been reported that the pool at the Biltmore has been receiving a big play for this time of the year.

Gold Trade Odd Business

By JESSE ROGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Should a shopper go into a supermarket, buy a couple of hundred dollars' worth of meat, put a tag on it and walk out without it, there would be some raised eyebrows in the checkout line behind him.

Yet an operation of this kind — changing ownership without taking the goods — takes place constantly in the international trading in gold, and is the rule rather than the exception.

Washington and New York dispatches told last week how U.S. gold stocks has shrunk by $300 million in the worst one-week decline in record.

But there was no traffic jam of trucks in front of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, no rush of heavily-laden ships to sea. A Treasury Department statement said that nearly all of the $300 million was sold to the United Kingdom, which was replacing gold it had in turn paid out to support the pound sterling earlier this year.

The transfer consisted largely of movement deep beneath the Manhattan streets, in the subcellars where gold may have been carried from one cage to another and the earmark changed to show it now belonged to the United Kingdom.

Since the United States has such restrictions on what can be done here with gold, even to the point where gold coins have been withdrawn from circulation since the 1930s, some citizens can walk in and buy it — even if they don't take it home.

It is because this nation still is on the gold standard, economists say.

In talking about the current shrinkage, the U.S. Treasury explained in a statement last week that "It is, of course, the long-standing and firm policy of the United States to sell gold to foreign monetary authorities at the established rate of $35 per fine ounce plus handling charges."

Bromberg was a long-term director of the famous psychiatric clinic of New York City's Court of General Sessions which as a matter of routine examines the mental process of all newly convicted felons. He now is active in promoting mental health, particularly as a consultant of the California state Department of Mental Hygiene.

He has put his "psychiatric study of homicide" into "The Mod of Murder," a scientific book.

Can homicide be prevented; he asked, and answered his question, yes, but it would take a lot of doing. The public would have to be educated in "the intimate relationships" between the minds of the killer and the law-abider.

"Television and newspapers could do it," he said. Their crime dramas could be made to "show those inner fantasies which tie the reader to crime stories and glue the viewer to criminal presentations." The reporters of these crime dramas should report the psychological cosmos of crime "so that law-abiders 'will not be able so easily to isolate themselves from the crime being depicted and so easily dismiss it from their minds.'"

NEWEST ADDITION to Teresa Hokey's family of pets is the two-month-old, wild jenny captured two weeks ago in the mountains. The indie girl, besides being a horsewoman, has many activities.

Wild Jenny Is Added To Youngster's Pets

By ED BARNUM

Teresa Hokey, 13, of 82-216 Tahquitz Ave., Indio, likes horses, dogs, cats and donkeys. In fact if it has four legs, and Teresa can talk her father into it, she usually has it as a pet.

The latest addition to the young horsewoman's collection of animals is "Teresa Jr." a two-month-old jenny captured two weeks ago in the mountains north of Amboy. George Hokey, the girl's father, is a member of the Riverside Sheriff's Posse in Indio and two weeks ago while on a training exercise with that group, captured several of the small animals and returned them to the posse corral outside Indio.

Teresa immediately adopted the wild burro and started training her. At first she tried moving the new pet in with her own horse, Tico, but the little quarter horse wouldn't have anything to do with this brash newcomer.

Now the pet enjoys the company of the father's horse in an adjoining stall.

The 13-year-old rider started young, her father said. When she was less than a year old, she fell asleep on top of a horse and since she was two, she has had her own pony or horse.

Active in the Junior Gymkhana's held at the Indio Arena, she is highly proficient in all types of riding, both rough-and-ready and show styles.

She has appeared in parades throughout Southern California riding with her father and, of late, solo or with other youngsters in her riding group.

The young lady isn't just a horsewoman. Her mother has seen to that. Teresa started dancing lessons when she was four-years-old and for the past five years has been featured in the solo parts of the annual Coachella Valley Dance Recital held at the high school.

In addition, Teresa is an active member of the Girl Scouts and Jobs Daughters.

Ice in Bird Bath Shows Freeze Here

The first freeze of the season is reported by George Stingle, a garden expert of Morongo Valley, when solid ice showed up in his bird bath Thursday night last. It came one week later than last year by actual record. The high desert elevation of 2,500 feet is the answer even though it is less than one half hour's drive from Palm Springs. Single is a writer of articles on the care and development of roses for the American Rose Society's national publications.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Jones are enjoying a visit from their daughter and husband, the F. R. Sheltons of Provo, Utah, where Mr. Shelton is a sales engineer for the Salt Lake Cabinet and Fixture Co. and their three children, Ronald, Kenneth and Ellen, and at the same time another daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jo Ann Jones of Provo also with three children, John, Brent and daughter Liane.

Cathedral Rotary Auction Sale Set

Cathedral City Rotary Club was set today for its second annual auction scheduled to get under way Saturday at 10 o'clock, with all proceeds going to aid area youth projects. Last year, at its first auction, the club raised $1,000 which was presented to the Angel View Crippled Children's hospital at Desert Hot Springs.

Merchants of the desert area have donated many valuable articles and citizens have ransacked storage rooms for items to be auctioned off by Bob Cordes, auctioneer and chairman of the event. The event will be staged on the lot adjacent to the Security National Bank in Cathedral City.

Items to go under the hammer

Firm Names New Directors

Allen H. Salvesen and Charles R. Abrams, Jr. have been elected directors of Haggarty's, it was announced by Edward H. Currier, chairman of the board. Abrams was also named vice president of the specialty chain.

Other changes in executive personnel were announced.

In the advertising department, Carol Norman assumes duties as acting advertising manager, John Burton is art director, Lucille Hoyne has been advanced to copy chief and Marian Van Dyke assumes the duties of staff artist.

run the gamut of used cars, TV sets, business machines, articles of clothing, building materials and an additional wide variety.

Wayne Kizer, president of the Cathedral City Rotary Club, expects another large out-pouring and successful event as the proceeds go to a worthy project—youth work.

Margaret's Baby Named David Albert Charles

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret's baby has been named David Albert Charles, it was announced tonight.

An official source in announcing the baby's Christian names said David was chosen as the first name because both Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, now Earl of Snowdon, "like the name very much."

Not Even Angels

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Not even an angel can have two wives in the United States.

Authorities said John M. Angel was arrested for having a wife here and one in Belpre, Ohio. They said he apparently divided his time between them and neither was aware of the other.

Philco Sale to Ford OK'd

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Stockholders of the Philco Corp. have approved sale of the company to Ford Motor Co.

Stockholders approved the sale by a vote of 3,426,653 to 80,801.

Philco President James M. Skinner Jr. announced that the transaction will be closed on or before Dec. 11, probably in Dearborn, Mich.

Approximately 250 persons attended the meeting at Philco headquarters here. There was extensive questioning of Skinner by stockholders who objected to the sale on the grounds that the proposed exchange of 4½ shares of Philco stock for 1 share of Ford stock was "unfair."

Class Play Cast Listed

Palm Springs High School seniors will present Daphne Du Maurier's "Rebecca" Saturday, Dec. 9, in the high school auditorium, at 8 p.m.

The cast consists of Corey Fisher as Maxim, Rachel Semco as Mrs. De Winter, Vicki Lynch as Bea, Bob Beck as Giles, Ana Marie Irueta as Mrs. Danners, Bob Edmonson as Jack, John Moody as Frith, John Thompson as Tabb, Kerry Whisphell as Colonel Julayn, Robert Duran as Robert, and Alan Culver as Frank.

The stage production, later made into a motion picture with Joan Fontaine and Sir Lawrence Olivier in the lead roles, concerns Maxim, his new bride, Mrs. De Winter, and their return to Maxim's estate, Manderley. Here Mrs. De Winter is confronted with an antagonistic housekeeper and staff, and a baffling problem concerning the demise of the first wife. The thrilling drama reveals the answer in its suspenseful third act.

WINTER GOLF CAPITAL OF THE WORLD

Underground Wells Key To Bermuda Dunes Success

(Editor's Note: This is another in the series featuring the golf courses in the Palm Springs area. Through the series we hope to acquaint new residents and visitors with the many courses which go to make up the "Winter Golf Capital of the World.")

"Water, water everywhere—and many a drop to spare."

At least that's the happy situation at Bermuda Dunes Country Club, according to co-developer Ernie Dunlevie.

Dunlevie, reminiscing about the construction days of the picturesque 18-hole championship course, pegged Bermuda Dunes' abundant water supply as one of the main keys to its phenomenal success. The bright gem of the golfing community is located 15 miles east of Palm Springs off Highway 99.

It seems that Bermuda Dunes has a potent ally in the form of an underground dyke that runs from Point Happy clear across the valley to Bermuda Dunes. This dyke channels mountain water into a series of connecting lakes lying far beneath the sandy surface of the golf course community.

Subterranean Reservoir
This subterranean reservoir is nurturing Bermuda Dunes' spacious fairways, grassy dunes and carpet-like greens. It is also feeding Bermuda Dunes' towering, man-made waterfall and its twin lakes.

One of these lakes is the unique and scenic 18th hole water hazard. A little more than a half acre in size, it holds more than 2,000,000 gallons of water. The two wells supplying it each produce a tremendous rate of 2,000 gallons of water a minute.

Dunlevie recalls how enthusiastic William Bell, Jr. was about being commissioned to design and build Bermuda Dunes' course. Bell, responsible for America's most celebrated links, found the high undulating contours of the site a real challenge to this golf course construction know-how.

Bell tamed the rolling and mysterious sand dunes into a course strangely like the sand holes to be found at Cypress Point, Pebble Beach and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. Well trapped and dotted by tricky hazards, the layout makes for a superb test for golfers. Top pros of the nation, who played the course in the U.S. National Senior Open and the $100,000 Palm Springs Desert Classic, have acclaimed its sportiness and the striking beauty of its sand dune surroundings and colorful mountain backdrop.

The palm-lined course, imaginatively designed and built by Bell, has the rare distinction of being an intriguing departure from the flat courses so common to California and Arizona's desert areas.

A Flexible Course
Boasting a total of 161 acres (there are 150 acres under grass), the par 72 course for men and 74 for women is famed for its flexibility. It offers 6,100-yard and 6,500-yard layouts in addition to its 7,008-yard championship test.

Set amidst one of the West's true beauty spots, the course has the ultimate in elbow room. This freedom from crowding (there are no parallel fairways) has been assured by king-sized tees, fairways and greens. They average more than one-third larger than most courses offer.

Homesite development bordering the links has been carefully planned. Tailored into and around the rolling, verdant fairways, the sites have given life to the phrase invariably associated with Bermuda Dunes, "Fairway Living."

Lates example of "Fairway Living" are 53 cooperative apartment units, comprising two individual projects.

One of these, Bermuda Colonies, is being built by Terrain, Inc. and consists of 25 units. The other is the 28-unit Bermuda Fairway Villas being built by Los Angeles builder Al Kuri and KTVV enuncer Bill Welsh.

All Units Face Links
All 53 of the units face Bermuda Dunes fairways and boast 1,500 square feet of living area divided among two bedrooms and two baths. Each unit has two patios and the use of a large swimming pool.

A single charge for the own-your-own apartments includes taxes, insurance and maintenance. Management leases individual units when the owners are away from the area for an extended time. A deed is given to each purchaser, providing him with the opportunity to take depreciation and certain tax advantages.

The new desert community has taken a giant step forward with the establishment of its first post office. Many of the residents there are movie, TV and sports luminaries, but they were excited as any other Bermuda Dunes citizen dispatching letters to their friends so they could show off their new "Bermuda Dunes, Calif." postmark.

In addition to the residential building the links itself has undergone many improvements, including a new lake, clubhouse redecoration and $100,000 worth of expansion that is producing a new men's and women's locker room and a new bag storage room.

Bermuda Dunes' opening party, marking the start of the club's third season, was held Oct. 21, and golf activities began Oct. 16-17 with the Women's Southern California Golf Association Open tournament. Tournaments coming up are the U.S. Senior National Open Nov. 13, third annual Bermuda Dunes Pro-Am on Nov. 25-26 and Bermuda Dunes Women's Invitational Dec. 4-5.

Classic is Climactic
Climactic event will be the $100,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic Jan. 31 - Feb. 4. The final 18 holes of this third annual 90-hole tourney, with its exciting $30,000 hole-in-one prize, will be played right at Bermuda Dunes.

Last winter former President Eisenhower and his family didn't arrive for their annual Palm Springs vacation until late in the season. This caused like to miss the Classic. But this time he's sure to be among the enthusiastic galleryites and will no doubt be watching the tournament windup at Bermuda Dunes.

Clarkson, Noted Golfer, Succumbs

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—Funeral services were scheduled today for Arthur Rigby Clarkson, former well known professional golfer.

He died Sunday at St. Vincent's Hospital at the age of 75. Clarkson, a native of Scotland, was golf pro at Rancho Golf course and Riviera Country Club. He also manufactured golf clubs which bore his name.

PALM-FRINGED fairways at Bermuda Dunes make the course one of the most beautiful in the Golf Capital. Lots of elbow room is afforded the golfer at the course which has no parallel fairways. The majestic mountains form a fitting backdrop to the course.

Ohio Students Bitter Over Roses Rejection

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio State University faculty council's rejection of a Rose Bowl bid for the football team touched off a long, wild demonstration Tuesday night by some 10,000 students.

Coach Woody Hayes seemed to take the decision calmly.

There were reports that the students planned further demonstrations on campus today.

The faculty, at a special afternoon meeting Tuesday to consider "overtures" from the West Coast, reaffirmed its opposition to the New Year's Day classic by a 28-25 vote.

Ohio State, which is rated No. 1 nationally in the latest United Press International poll, finished an unbeaten season with a 50-20 victory Saturday at Michigan that gave the Buckeyes the Big Ten title.

A few hours after the decision was announced, students gathered at the campus and demonstrated and then marched three miles to the downtown area and the Statehouse. They milled around the Statehouse grounds, chanting they wanted a "re-vote" on the question and "We want (Gov. Michael) Di Salle."

Cousy Helps Celtics Win

By United Press International
Bob Cousy is rated the greatest play-maker in basketball history — and today he has more than 6,000 "reasons" listed alongside his name in the National Basketball Association record book.

The Boston Celtics' 33-year-old star reached another milestone in his brilliant career Tuesday night when he was credited with 12 assists in a 116-108 victory over the Detroit Pistons at Madison Square Garden. Cousy, who also scored 27 points to lead both teams, raised his career total in assists to 6,002 — more than 1,600 ahead of his closest rival.

The Celtics led, 63-47, at halftime and maintained a lead of about 20 points until Cousy and Sam Jones were removed with a minute left in the third period. The Pistons quickly cut the lead to 101-99 but Cousy went back into the game and scored six points in the next minute to clinch the game.

Bill Russell scored 23 points to help the Celtics score their fifth straight victory and their 14th in 16 games this season. Ray Scott led the Pistons with 20 points.

Oscar Robertson scored 31 points and Jack Twyman 20 to offset a 42-point effort by Richie Guerin and lead the Cincinnati Royals to a 131-117 win over the New York Knicks in the second game of the Garden doubleheader before a crowd of 9,837.

The Syracuse Nationals overcame a 49-point performance by Elgin Baylor to defeat the Los Angeles Lakers, 121-111, and the Philadelphia Warriors beat the St. Louis Hawks, 121-111, in other games. Johnny Kerr and Hal Greer led the Nations with 24 and 20 points respectively, while Wilt Chamberlain had 39 points for the Warriors.

Gophers Mulling Rose Bowl Offer?

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—University of Minnesota officials will decide Thursday and Friday whether the school will accept an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl if it is offered.

Stanley J. Wenberg, vice president of the university, announced Tuesday night it had received two unofficial inquiries as to what its position would be if an invitation were extended for the Minnesota football team to participate in the Rose Bowl game.

He said a senate committee on intercollegiate athletics was scheduled to meet on the issue Thursday, and the full university faculty senate would gather Friday to consider the inquiries.

Sale of Bacon on Sunday Implicit Sin in Virginia

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the Virginia Legislature interprets the Gospel, it is implicitly a sin and expressly a crime to sell bacon on Sunday.

But in this selfsame legislature's view of the credo, beer may be sold on the Sabbath with impunity, and presumably in good conscience.

These are two of the more eye-catching aspects of the new Sunday blue law that recently went into effect in the Old Dominion.

Notes from Foreign News

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Atomic Club
Bonn reports say that President Kennedy rebuffed West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on the latter's plea that NATO be made a nuclear power. Adenauer is expected to continue to press his idea but to obtain little support from other NATO members. One difficulty is the establishment of a control system better than the present one wherein the order to fire must come from the American President.

Muzzle for Clay?
Germans who accompanied Adenauer to Washington say that Gen. Lucius D. Clay has been told to cut out public arguments over what should or should not have been done on Aug. 13, the day the Communists threw their way across Berlin. On the other hand, Clay appears to have won his case on the recent U. S. show of tank strength, which Adenauer opposed.

Crystal Ball:
Western diplomats foresee no new dramatic moves in Berlin in the immediate future. They say erection of the Communist anti-refugee wall removed the most urgent reason for the Russian demand that the West Berlin be made a free, demilitarized city. The wall halted the mass flight of refugees to the West.

In Moscow, the Soviets are waiting impatiently for signs of a Western initiative in the Berlin situation. Foreign Minister Andre Gromyko indicated to Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange that the Soviets realized nothing could be expected until after Adenauer's return from Washington.

Geneva a Key:
The Allies expect to get a first indication of Russia's latest attitude toward East-West negotiations when American and British negotiators meet their Soviet counterparts at the resumed Geneva nuclear test ban conference this week.

To some eyes, they appear to be incongruous.

I will leave it to the theologians to say whether the politicians have made statute jibe with Scripture. But as a layman, I am prepared to discuss some of the practical effects of the law in my suburban neighborhood.

Chaos in Beginning
Those of us who reside on the Virginia side of the Potomac, and elsewhere in the state, have been living with the law for about four weeks now. In the beginning, as when the earth was created, there was chaos.

It took a couple of weeks for store owners to reach any sort of unanimity on what goods were, or were not, verboten to Sunday shoppers. Most of them now have posted lists for the guidance of clerks and customers.

As I understand it, the lawmakers did not intend to cut off the source of supply of items of necessity or of an emergency nature. But in a neighborhood store that I sometimes patronize, there is a seventh day embargo on such goods as baby pants, can openers, fly swatters, handkerchiefs, keys, mouse traps, shoe laces and television tubes.

Easy to See
It doesn't require much imagination to envision an emergency need for any of those items—at least not if you have mice, flies or children in your house. The main controversy thus far involves the operation of laundromats. Some legal experts hold that the washing of clothes on Sunday is not a necessity. Others maintain that cleanliness is next to Godliness.

Thus far, however, matters in Virginia suburbs have not reached the point that they have in Maryland suburbs, where rival automobile dealers have been turning each other in for blue law violations.

In my neighborhood, the major impact has been felt by those chaps who spend their week ends performing do-it-yourself projects. Deprived of hardware supplies, but not of sudsy beverages, they now sit in around the house drinking beer.

FDA Nabs Drugs
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has announced seizure of drugs which it said were falsely represented to athletic coaches as aids against fatigue and sore muscles.

The FDA said Friday the drugs were seized at Ebco Industries, Birmingham, Ala., after being shipped by Health Research, Inc., of Little Rock, Ark.

PALM DESERT

Palette Club Presents Exhibition of Painting

PALM DESERT — One of the most interesting events was the painting exhibition given before the Palm Desert Palette Club by artist Heiner Grimm.

Using the palette knife with deft skilled strokes, Grimm brought a delightful desert scene alive, step by step, as the dedicated painters watched. Blocking out the scene on a blank canvas (far mountains and desert seen through a pass, with desert foliage and tall yucca in the foreground) he quickly mixed his subtle colors from white, carmine, brown, yellow, blue, ochre and red. Working with quick, delicate accuracy, Grimm made every movement count to the very moment the picture was signed and framed.

Irene Fenton, president of the club, said the club has many new and interesting members, among them several from the Northwest. Mrs. A. L. Byrd of Seattle finds it quite a challenge to catch the desert on canvas after being used to the lush foliage of the north.

Showing art work next month will be Paula Munson, director of Desert Magazine Art Gallery, (whose guest was Mrs. Jean McCracken from Los Angeles). Mrs. Munson does sea drift sculpting. Cyria Henderson will show her prize winning bust of Albert Schweitzer.

Dolly and Kay Olesen visited son John and family in Sacramento for Thanksgiving. En route home they were to call on daughter Karen and her husband, Russell Whitcomb, who have a home in Mountain View on the San Francisco peninsula.

The W. D. Yorks from La Canada, (Mrs. H. P. Willat's sister) spent Thanksgiving in the Willat's apartment in Palm Desert. (The Willats own and operate the Laguna Riviera and commute to the desert). York reminisced about 1923 when he drove to Palm Springs from Banning for Sunday dinner at the Desert Inn, there was only a hazardous road and the trip took all day. In 1927, the Yorks, with another couple, drove from Los Angeles to Whitewater, then with camping equipment, food extra water and gasoline, started over the narrow rock, rut, and rough sandy road to Twentynine Palms. Arriving there at dusk they camped overnight under a willow tree, little knowing that it was filled with caterpillars.

Gwen Holloway has added another interesting job to her many duties. She is the new publicity chairman for the Shadow Mountain Palette Club.

Relaxing with the music of Harry Gillingham at Firecliff Lodge on Thanksgiving Day were Helen and Jim Hill, Bill McKenzie, (La Jolla) and Jane Cowell, (Los Angeles) singing some fancy tunes together. Bill Rigney Sr., with sons, George and Bill Jr., (Manager of the Angeles). The Macks (Indian Wells) with a party of eight. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bowman from Palm City and the Elmer Tinders.

Friendly Elizabeth Thompson, the new hostess, has just arrived from guest ranch Lazy H near San Diego and already loves our desert. She likes people and finds them easy-going and adjustable here. Tony Rodriguez (chef at Firecliff) started his Thanksgiving Day at 4:30 a.m. — doesn't believe in cooking turkeys the day before. —Pat Anderson

Better Start on Carnival Plans

By RALPH VILLERS
United Press International
Christmas isn't even here yet, but for travelers thinking of taking in a pre-Lenten Carnival somewhere, it's time to start planning.
In the great hot-beds of Carnival such as New Orleans and other Gulf Coast cities, Rio de Janeiro and some of the Caribbean islands, the last-minute planner winds up with less-than-desired accommodations—that is, if any can be found.
Carnival traditionally is celebrated on those two, three or four days preceding Ash Wednesday, which in 1962 will be March 7.
Someone thinking about combining a vacation with Carnival would do well to consider Trinidad, the big British West Indian island a few miles off the coast of Venezuela.

Spontaneous Show
Carnival in Trinidad is one of those spontaneous shows the people put on for themselves, not for the tourists. The costumes and music are riotously wild and imaginative.

Trinidad officially marks only two days of Carnival, Monday and Tuesday (March 5-6 next year), but the people get around that by starting several days early.

For months now the natives have been banding into their parade groups and secretly making the fantastic costumes they hope will win them prizes. Visitors are likely to see such unlikely characters for the tropics as "George Washington" in a powdered wig, a "king" with trailing purple robes and a "Norseman" with horned helmet, all cavorting and singing to the infectious rhythm of steel bands.

The paraders' energy and enthusiasm is boundless as they step and march about. Everywhere there is calypso in this home of the steel band. Some of the marching groups number as many as 500 persons, each group carrying out its own Carnival theme.

Frosting On Cake

Carnival is just frosting to the cake that is Trinidad any time. Although nearly as far from New York as London, Port-of-Spain, Trinidad's capital, is less expensive to reach by plane, even in comparison to winter season economy fares on the Atlantic. Round-trip in a propeller plane is $289 economy class, $407 first class; jet fare is $319 economy class and $437 first class. A jet takes 5 to 6 hours from New York, while the prop plane is a few hours longer.

Some cruise ships generally try to hit port at Carnival time, too. Port-of-Spain has several first class hotels, notable, among other things, for a spread of tropical fruit at breakfast sufficient to carry the diner to dinner. Carnival falls in the midst of the high season, but even so rates are not outrageous.

Night life is made vivid by the rhythmic drums and the Limbo dance, with the dancers trying to slither under a bar progressively dropped toward the floor, without touching either bar or floor.

Port-of-Spain abounds in shopping bargains, even though not a free port. The scenery is lush and tropical. The culture is, if you can imagine it, a blend of Eastern, Western and African.

Miss Cooke is the daughter of John J. Cooke and the late Mrs. Hope Noyes Cooke. After the death of her mother and her grandparents, she became the ward of Mr. and Mrs. Chapin, who now live at Seal Harbor, Maine. Chapin formerly was U.S. ambassador to the Netherlands, Panama, Iran and Peru.

East-West Wedding Set

NEW YORK (UPI)—The planned east-meets-west wedding of a post-debutante New York college girl and the Buddhist heir to the throne of tiny Sikkim in the Himalayas—when the time is "propitious"—has been disclosed.

The engagement of Hope Cooke, 21, niece and ward of long-time American diplomat Selden Chapin, to Prince Kumar, 38, maharaj of Sikkim, was announced here by Mr. and Mrs. Chapin. It will be the first time a westerner has married into the royal family of the 2,700-square-mile state nestled between Red China, India, Bhutan and Nepal.

The wedding will not be held before 1963 because next year is not viewed as "propitious" in the Buddhist country. A spokesman for the Chapins said they did not know if Miss Cooke would convert to Buddhism from her Episcopal faith.

Food Stockpile Asked for State From Federal Government Source

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown has asked the federal government to increase stockpiles of food and feed grains in California. Brown, in a letter to Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, said the state appreciated the recent relocation of two million bushels of wheat in California. But he said the minimum amount needed in case of an emergency would be 30 million bushels of wheat alone.

Palm Springs, California, Wednesday, November 29, 1961

Around Town

with Hildy Crawford

Wednesday, Nov. 29, 1961

Bobbe and Bill Perlberg sent out around 75 telegrams this week inviting that many people to an informal dinner party, which they are holding in the Naughty Nineties Room at the Ranch Club on Friday night. It's a room which lends itself nicely to parties and this is intended as a fun one.

While Bill and Milton Prell are on the verge of kicking off a campaign to raise two million dollars for Desert Hospital, this is not a "bring-your-checkbook" party, but is intended as a get-better-acquainted party, with Bill asking cooperation in the drive which starts later.

Soon after the curtain goes up on the New Year, on January 11, the Racquet Club is staging its first big costume party, which will honor both Hollywood and Broadway, and billing it as "Act One," denoting curtain time for 1962.

Cast in the production includes Playwright Moss Hart who wrote "Act One" and his actress wife Kitty Carlisle, and Fritz Loewe, the other member of the team that has given Broadway and Hollywood such great box office hits as "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot."

And, in addition, another Palm

Springs home owner, Jack Warner who is often to be found on the tennis courts at Racquet Club; and whose Warner Brothers Company will soon produce "Camelot" and has purchased the screen rights to "Act One."

Costuming for the party will be the kind that might come out of the wardrobe departments of every Broadway hit.

It's a member-guest party, of course, and sure to have the Standing Room Only sign out, and to draw good reviews.

Everyone who has traveled to Honolulu by ship and learned the hula in the huge classes that include about a fourth of all the passengers aboard, were swaying and singing at the Racquet Club the other evening, when Jeri Namaka and Eddie Kahanamoku, cruise host and hostess for the Lurline, and the Matsonia, surprised the dinner crowd with an impromptu show, singing and dancing to Clyde Rogers Island music.

In the dinner crowd Dr. and Mrs. Charles Baldwin were entertaining Helen and Bill Dzo Dzo and Barbara and William Foster. Among twosomes, enjoying the Hawaiian interlude were Mary and Harold Hicks and the Luther Bells.

Also enjoying the entertainment were Carol and Bob Marx, who were with the Marvin Lickers, Sharon Ruskin and Lionel Newfield. Joanne and Lee Walls were with Pat Henderson and David Kane.

With Edna Rothbart were Kay and Dolph Obergfel, the much-traveled Villagers. Kay made it to Europe twice this summer, once with Edna and once with Dolph, and now the Obergfels are planning a trip to Hawaii in February and told Jeri Namaka that they had never heard the "Hawaiian Wedding Song" sung so beautifully. That Island music can sure make you nostalgic.

IT WAS A FESTIVE moment for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lewis when they cut their tiered wedding cake during the reception following their marriage at the ranch home of her parents on Clancy Lane. The former Mrs. Jan Doty and her groom honeymooned at Hotel Del Coronado and will make their home at the Chukker Inn in Palm Desert.

Jan Doty Is Married in Holiday Wedding Rites

Standing before the beautifully decorated massive fireplace at the Rancho Manana home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Blake Field, Jan Doty became the bride of Andrew Lewis during Thanksgiving eve ceremonies.

Gowned in a custom designed silk brocade dress, the bride was given in marriage by Mr. Field and was attended by the groom's sister, Mrs. Phillip Nelson of Tulsa, Okla.

Willis M. Allen of La Jolla, served the groom as best man while the Rev. James W. Arnold, pastor of the Cathedral City Community Church, officiated during the service. Only close friends and members of the two families attended the marriage ceremony.

Immediately following the service, guests to the reception began to arrive at the Clancy Lane ranch home to congratulate the radiant bride and groom.

The new Mrs. Lewis has been a resident of the Palm Springs area for 10 years, coming here with her family from Arizona. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Harry B. Lewis and the late Mr. Lewis of LaJolla. He has been on the teaching staff at Palm Valley School for several years, following his graduation from Pomona College.

Following the champagne reception, the pair drove to the Hotel del Coronado where they honeymooned. They will soon move to the Chukker Inn in Palm Desert where they will make their home.

THE MARRIAGE of Dorothy Strebe to William Kellum Porter III will take place in St. Paul's of the Desert Church on Dec. 19, it has been announced this week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earle C. Strebe, and invitations have gone out to the wedding and the reception which will follow. (P.S. News-Photo)

Buffet Luncheon Followed By Afternoon at Cards

Silver candelabra held yellow tapers and yellow chrysanthemums centered the buffet table, when Mrs. Earle Arnold hosted a luncheon in her Calle Palo Fiero home, which was followed by a card party in the Driftwood home of Mrs. Daniel Newton.

At the luncheon, a Thanksgiving theme was carried out with diners carrying their casserole and molded salad luncheon to individual tables, where miniature turkeys were centerpieces.

Enjoying luncheon, bridge and canasta were: Mmes. Gerald Sanborn, George Chandler, Glenn Watson, Luellian Edgerton, Chauncey Mahannah, Mark Essery, Oscar Frederickson, Lynn Labeau, Fran Pruitt, Leonard Arnold, Charlotte Goodwin, Irwin D. Wright, George Smith, Charles Greason, Claire Kinne, Francis Brugman, Bryant Sanders and Lee Havener.

Also, Mmes. Joseph Farrell, Meade Hargiss, Walter Yeatmon, Catherine Gentry, Hayden Shamel, Thomas Holland, Joseph Stermer, Peggy Doman, James Carlisle, David Carlin, Cornelius Maffie and Fred Udall.

And, Mmes. Shirley Nicholson, Marvin Sales, Carl Steenberg, Bo Herbert, Howard Matthews, Fred Gooden, Roy Burton, Leonard Cleek, Fred Antsey, John Frederickson, Edward Ruge and Miss Hazel Gross.

Cathedral City Juniors To Enter Sewing Contest

Plans for entering a national contest to select the "Ideal All-Occasion Costume for the Clubwoman," were announced at a Cathedral City Junior Women's Club meeting by Mrs. Wayne Kizer, contest chairman.

Fashion sense and skill with a needle could make a Cathedral City clubwoman the winner, this year, of a three-week fashion tour of Europe—top prize in the 35th annual Fashion-Sewing Contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in cooperation with Vogue Pattern Service and the Woman's Club Service Bureau.

Mrs. Kizer pointed out that each entry must be made and modeled by the individual club member who submits it; the winning entry being selected on the basis of appropriateness for club occasions, becomingness to wearer, over-all fashion effect, and workmanship. Judging of entries from the Cathedral City club is scheduled for sometime in January.

The winner of this local judging will be eligible to compete in the Federation's District judging to be held later in the year, where she will vie with the winners of other club contests in the District. The District winner becomes eligible to compete in the State Federation judging. Prizes at the state level consist of cash awards of $100 and $25 to the first and second place winners.

In the final round of the Fashion-Sewing Contest, the top winner from each State will go on to represent her State in the National judging, to be held in New York City in mid-May. The grand prize for the first place National winner will be the three-week fashion tour of Europe for two people, while second and third place winners will receive $500 and $250 respectively. As part of their honors, the two top winners will also attend the 1962 GFWC Convention in Washington, D.C., and the clubs represented by all three National winners will receive important cash awards.

During the meeting, Clay Stearns, director of the Palm Desert Pal Players, presented a program of amusing show business anecdotes and gave a reading from a play that he will soon direct.

Club president Mrs. Harold Bentley announced that applies were sent to the school teachers in the Cathedral City School during Education Week, in appreciation of their fine work, and that the club had an entry in the Cactus Jumper's Jamboree Parade.

Members were reminded of the District Conference to be held in Indio on Dec. 2.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Dolly Schultz and Betty Hall. Guests present for the meeting were: Mrs. J. Allen Stone, Cathedral City Woman's Club president; Mrs. Mel Crowell, alternate coordinator; and Mmes. Russell Henry, Kenneth Roberts, Russell Snyder and Don Chandler.

Mrs. Faye Kennebeck of Palm Desert has returned from an orientation tour of Japan, Hongkong, Formosa, Thailand and Hawaii. Mrs. Kennebeck says, "This is a very exciting era—the countries of the Orient are fired with ambition. In tourism, you see evidence of this in small but significant ways—the abundant supply of matches, soap and cleansing tissues in the hotels which you don't see in Europe."

"Japan is extremely tourist conscious and is building for the future. Some 20,000 new hotel rooms are scheduled to be built before the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Funny experiences of two young men undergoing training to be astronauts will make up a projected TV film series planned by Screen Gems. Appropriately, the series is to be called "Astronauts." The show is aimed for the 1962-63 season. Sounds like just a slight switch on the durable "service comedy" type of entertainment.

A Matter of Mind

By Dr. Arthur Janov

One of the more common psychological maladies of today is boredom. Many people here in Palm Springs — everywhere — have the feeling that nothing is worth the effort and that nothing can really interest them. They seem to be searching for an elusive something that perpetually escapes them. They need constant "kicks," but find that this is insatiable since their interest cannot sustain itself for more than a short period of time. Without ever new charges of stimulation they find themselves wallowing in the rudderless doldrums of listlessness and emptiness. Their life is not tied to anything forward moving or creative and they seem to be serving time waiting out the sentence that life has imposed upon them.

Often psychotherapy is defenseless against these feelings because they may be caused not only by emotional factors but also simply by an intellectual deficit. Psychologists cannot make intelligent out of people who aren't, although they can help to liberate intelligence that is neurotically bound.

A Faculty Generator Bored people often have a faculty generator — they cannot generate their own pleasure or stimulation but must look to others for satisfaction. They seek out interesting people to stimulate them because interesting people are people who are interested in things and can stimulate others. Boredom is often due to the fact that the person has an undeveloped inner life. When probed you discover that they do not even know what an inner life is. When left alone for any length of time they find themselves intolerable and are driven to find ever new sources of stimulation.

Boredom often is a mask for quite another phenomenon — anxiety. The person is filled with an anxiety that is experienced in consciousness as emptiness... a feeling that there's nothing to do — what's it all for? Having to remain still for these people is like damming up a spillway. Admonitions to this person to relax are wasted; he would if he could. He must be on the move, fleeing from his family and, more importantly, from himself. The question is "why?"

'Freud' Movie Used Hypnosis

VIENNA (UPI) — American film director John Huston says hypnotized subjects have been used in a motion picture for the first time in his film, "Freud."

Huston recently finished filming the last sequences here of the movie of the life of the famed founder of psychoanalysis.

Hypnosis was used in recreating for the movie the experiments of Jean Martin Charcot, the French doctor who first used hypnotic techniques in treatment of the emotionally disturbed. Freud studied under Charcot and was greatly influenced by his methods.

Huston said the subjects learned their lines under hypnosis and forgot them as soon as the spell was broken by the doctors in charge.

"They didn't flub a line," Huston said. "It might be a good idea to put all the actors under hypnosis."

"But then," he added, "they wouldn't need me because they couldn't hear what I was saying."

CATHEDRAL CITY

Visitors Throng the Desert for Holiday

Long time Cathedral City residents Nellie and Bessie Tucker have as their Thanksgiving week houseguest their close friend, Miss Elizabeth Church who makes her home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Dorcas Drage and daughter, Sonja, drove to Pasadena Wednesday night to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Peterson, for a Thanksgiving Day family reunion.

Guests at the Desert Lodge for the Thanksgiving holiday weekend include Ethel Palmer of Hollywood and Vera Sturgis from Oceanside. Mrs. D. Magee arrived Wednesday from her home in Alhambra to spend a week or more at the Desert Lodge, and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Steinbeck left for their home in Claremont Wednesday after enjoying their annual visit of several weeks.

A turkey dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michele Rentschler last Sunday celebrated his birthday and Thanksgiving. Here for the special occasion were his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Rentschler of South Gate.

Mrs. Francine Melrose arrived last week from her ranch in Kallispell, Mont., to spend another winter with her mother, Mrs. Emma Hammill.

Weekend houseguests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hollister and family were her sister and family, the John Howells from West Covina.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eversz and children, Kathy and David, arrived Wednesday night from their home in Fullerton to spend Thanksgiving with his parents Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eversz at their Terrace Road home.

Annual winter visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dueber, arrived from their home in Centralia, Wash., to spend the season at the Sun Glow Motel. Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Napier of Santa Barbara and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hancock of Pacific Grove, are at the Sun Glow for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sefton have as their Thanksgiving weekend houseguests their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Sefton and children, Pamela, Gail and Chip, who make their home in Fullerton. Mrs. Sefton's niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Finch and children, Janice, Chrissy and Barry, joined the family for Thanksgiving Day festivities.

After spending five days at the Sunhaven Court, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Petersen left Wednesday for their home in Walnut Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. George Quigly and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Wentzel, who are on vacation from their homes in Biloxi, Miss., spent a week as houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer and family at their home in E Street. Also visiting with the Palmers for several days was his son, Johnny Palmer from Seattle, Wash.

After spending the summer in Portland, Ore., and Salem, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bunker have returned to their Cathedral City poultry shop. En route, they stopped to visit with his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Neapass, at their home in Oakland.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cochran, daughter of Mrs. Olive Nickerson, is now in charge of artificial flowers and arrangement at the Patio Outpost.

Accident Toll Totals 3,066

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol reported today that 3,066 persons died in traffic accidents during the first 10 months of 1961. Commissioner Bradford Critten-den said that the total was 1.25 per cent higher than the deaths listed at the same time last year. Last month, 328 persons died in traffic, a drop of 53 from October 1960.

Tensions Waning

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant has said that racial and sectional tensions have almost disappeared in Florida since he became governor 11 months ago. "Today there is a climate under which the people are evolving for themselves their own solutions to the myriad problems which arise out of the social conflicts of our day," he said.

The Defensive Driver is the Safe Driver

Within a few hours we will move into December, annually the most lethal month on the highways. Not only one long weekend, Christmas, and the start of another, the New Year holiday, but also the preoccupation of most people whose minds will be on Yuletide shopping and parties, combine to make it so.

Traffic records reveal the twelfth month as the most dangerous in the year. Added to the increased hazards is the poignancy of a tragedy in a season where the two big days are designated as "merry" and "happy."

One blunt traffic expert declares that as the highway and automobiles get better and better, the drivers are getting worse and worse. Another, more kindly, says that improvement of the motorist is not keeping pace with the improvement of cars and roads. It's all in the way you look at it but both traffic men unite in their belief that too large a segment of the motoring public is not looking at it the right—and safe—way.

Too often the modern automobile in the hands of the mediocre driver becomes, instead of an engineering marvel, a bone-shattering or death-dealing menace.

Highways and motor vehicles are being built for greater convenience and safety to a degree unthought of a decade ago. But human progress apparently has not been as good by a lamentable margin.

Those concerned with safety on the highways say that it is not a question of lack of physical skill. In this day of almost "push-button" driving with machine-made power taking over at the touch of a control, a wisp of a woman at the wheel is as strong as a well-muscled man. Those who make a study of traffic accidents, blame it on the mental attitude of drivers, the psychological change that comes to many with the surge of power after the ignition key is turned.

Too many of us, they say, are self-complacent about our driving skill. Too many are confident that, as drivers, they know it all. It is the other fellow who makes the mistakes. This feeling, it is claimed, is one of the principal causes of motor vehicle tragedies.

Just as improvements in automobiles and highways continue, learning to drive should continue. What was safe and good driving in 1950 may not be safe and good driving today.

The big need today is for a change in the attitude of motorists. If, as traffic experts say, too many people are too smug and believe that it is the other fellow who causes the accidents, why don't they pattern their driving habits along the line of that belief? It would be the logical thing to do.

They would then join that class of better motorists known as "defensive" drivers. This group has the fewest accidents, none of them self-caused, and they profit through lower insurance premiums. A defensive driver does more than just obey traffic and safety laws. He is careful to avoid errors or take chances which could lead to an accident. He makes allowances for possible lack of skill on the part of others, he is aware of the hazards which can show up in the condition of the highway, weather or his vehicle. A defensive driver is on the alert, he anticipates trouble and is prepared for it. While at the wheel, he knows that piloting of thousands of pounds of swift-moving machinery is not a part time job.

The antonym of defensive is offensive, something which accident-prone drivers too often are.

Will Collect Later—But No Insurance

The advertisement of a building contractor reveals that the tense world situation has not turned all of us into pessimists. Optimism still prevails as does faith, trust in humanity, and in the future.

This contractor, hearing opportunity knocking, used the printed word to declare himself ready to dig, build and outfit a complete bomb fallout shelter to any size desired with prices, of course, in keeping with the depth, breadth and home comforts supplied.

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

Senators Fight Shy of Investigation

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Negotiations seldom make news, but the postponement of Monday's (Nov. 27) scheduled probe of the downgrading of the American military is exceptional.

As emphasized in this column last week, the year-end hearings could not be expected to produce much more than the beginning of a long, painful search to identify and isolate the No Win military policy of the Kennedy Administration. But the reasons for the postponement of this modest beginning need to be noted, as follows:

1. "Anybody seen any Senators around lately?" James Kendall, Preparedness Subcommittee counsel, told me that he couldn't scrape together enough Senatorial manpower to hold a meeting which has been laid on since August. Only one Senator, Strom Thurmond, was unqualifiedly ready and willing to drop everything to be in attendance. For good, bad and indifferent reasons, the other seven Senators couldn't make it. The endemic of "other engagements" coincided in some instances with the President's attacks on Radical Rightists. It also reflected a standing unwillingness of several Senators to get mixed up in an anti-administration investigation.

2. "May I borrow your secretary?" With a mere pittance of $3,000, the subcommittee staff work has barely begun. Probably the first meeting would have been hardly more than an indoctrination ceremony, but it would have expressed a will to get on with the job.

3. "General, are you ready?" Administration Senators on the subcommittee want to ask Major General Edwin Walker why he spoke disrespectfully of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and other Democratic peers. But Senator Thurmond has told Chairman Stennis that the questioning of Walker must not be hit-and-run. When the General does appear, he is going to be talking about his successful slander suit against the Overseas

Weekly, which criminally maligned him; about his removal from his Army Command without a trial; about the censoring, educating and politicizing which goes on in the Armed Services. Chairman Stennis knows that he cannot call Walker and prevent Thurmond from raising unwelcome subjects. Should anybody attempt to throttle Thurmond, the fiery Carolinian will ask and answer his own questions in public speeches and on the Senate floor.

With Walker's downgrading and with the Fulbright Memo, the argument over suppressing anti-Communism became the most significant single event of the 87th Congress, first session. A four-star military man told me this last summer in Europe that the clamp-down on anti-Communism is interpreted by the American officer corps as meaning—"Don't blame the Russians for the state of the world. Somebody else is to blame!"

This is no way to win a war, or is it? Paradoxically, the Kennedy policy seems to say that it "is" the way to win "this" war. It is the policy called No Win. It means that by watchful waiting, by maintaining, in Arthur Schlesinger's phrase, a military "equilibrium" (i.e., not a superiority, much less a supremacy) and by fearless negotiation, we can achieve a Russo-American coexistence.

Walt Rostow, a White House trustee, is only one of many Frontiersmen with long-standing No Win convictions. With a paper now before me, delivered in April, 1960, at the Asilomar (Calif.) Conference, he spoke his piece.

In an age when his Russian intellectual counterparts are boasting of Soviet achievements and predicting Soviet supremacy in years to come, Rostow assumes for the USA a humility that would do credit to a monastery of Trappist monks, but hardly to a major nation and the keystone of the Western World. Rostow says in part:

"Those of us who live in the Northern half of the globe . . . know that in the century about to unfold, the technological monopoly which we now hold will slip away . . .

"Specifically, we must count on a redistribution of power and authority on the world scene . . .

"The vision I have . . . promises no automatic success . . . no American century . . . The role of the United States in determining the outcome of the world's history over coming decades will, of course, be marginal, and success cannot be assured."

What, then, do we do about it all? Rostow says we must take advantage of Russia's "latent nightmare" (which is Red China) and hope for a situation in which Russia's "only logical course is to make common cause with the United States—we must steadily leave only one option open to them . . . and that is to move seriously toward peace."

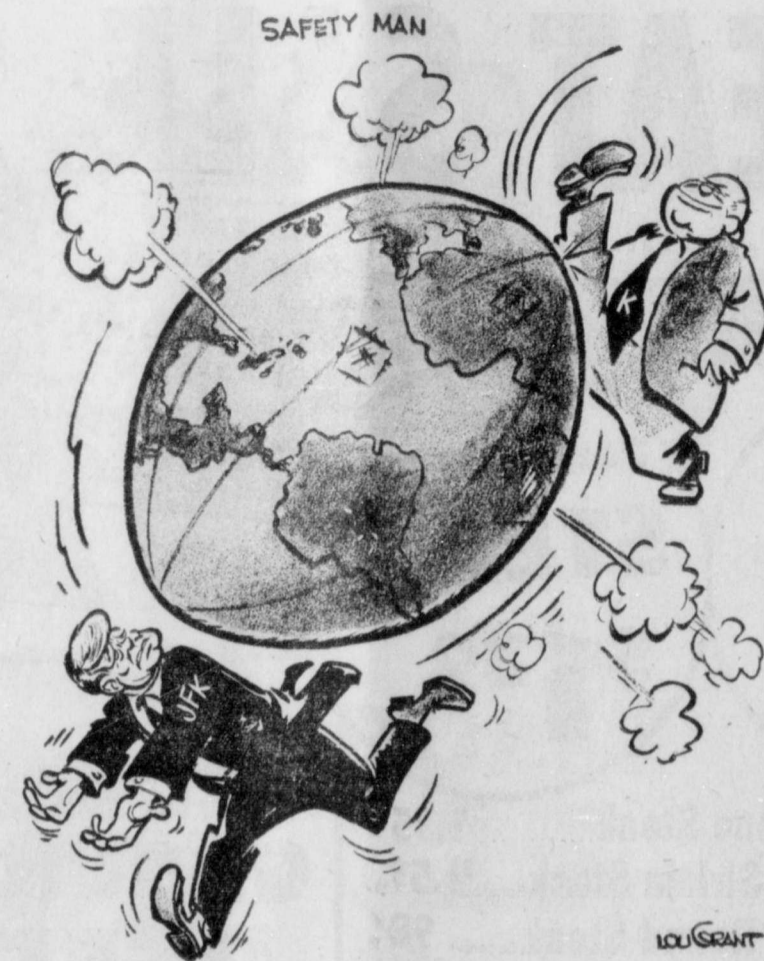

In brief, "peace" lies in a fuzzy Russo-American accord to be achieved without winning, without belief in ourselves, without much hope — except the lassitudinous hope that, somehow, our two major enemies will fall out while trying to divide the world between them.

This viewpoint is precisely what the Preparedness Subcommittee is supposed to discover and denounce.

QUOTE

TOKYO—A statement by the Red Chinese government, defying the Soviet Union's anti-Albania attitude:

"The comradeship-in-arms of the Chinese and Albanian people and their close unity can be shaken by no force on earth . . . long live the eternal, unbreakable friendship."

THIS SIDE Of The Sun

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

Why don't you write
Mean criticism
Of nasty bums
And vandalism?

The girl just dumped a mass — maybe mess is a better word — of mail on my desk. Right after I had cleaned it up for the holidays, too. One of the missives was addressed to "This Side" and, in effect, asked the above question.

THE ANSWER to that is easy. Just ask another question like "What's the Use?"

People who are dumb enough and senseless enough to indulge in acts of vandalism just to smash something or smear a wall or window with uncouth writing, are too dumb to read.

And if they, by some odd circumstance, can read, haven't enough sense to understand. Is that mean enough?

THE CUSTODIAN of a memorial park told me that, when it comes to statues of which there are several in his care, pigeons don't give him half the trouble that the vandals do.

One of his most frequent tasks, he said, is to contact a stone mason to repair the nose on one of the heroes posed on pedestals in the park.

Seems that to many people the sight of the exterior of the olfactory organ, brings out the worst in them. They want to bash it.

IT COULD BE that, since they are vandals, they haven't the courage to bash somebody's nose if there was a chance that the basher could bash back. So they pick on a helpless statue. That's what the psychiatrists call frustration.

This nose-busting practice reaches its peak in Rome where there are many statues. The older the object of the frustrated phrenetics' attack, the wilder they become.

The Arabs went to work on the great Sphinx in Egypt in the Middle Ages and now it rests on the desert without a nose on its face.

How does it smell? Pretty bad, I'm told.

GOING BACK to that business about the mail with which this piece started, I know how they could reduce the mailman's burden and save a lot of money for firms which send out great gobs of publicity hoping that some of it will find a way into the news columns for free.

Mailing lists of the public relations men and women are sadly in need of revision. Every day there are three of four duplicate blurbs from PR offices hoping to get a boost for their attraction or business into the papers.

THERE ARE ALSO triplicates, identical items sent three times. Today, however, we hit the jackpot. Four letters, each with the same photo, promoting an amusement park, arrived.

All were addressed to The Desert Sun with the notation on the envelope, bottom, left, "Att'n . . ." followed by the names of four past editors, one who hasn't been here since 1937. Postage on each was 16 cents.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Abby . . .

DEAR ABBY: Recently a married couple and I (a single man) decided to join together and buy a wedding gift for a mutual friend. When it came time for sharing the cost of the gift, we had a difference of opinion as to what the fair share for each of us should be.

My idea was to count the heads and divide the total charge by three. The couple's idea was that, since they were a married couple, they should be considered "one." In other words, they—the married couple—should pay half and I, the single man, should pay half. Who, in your opinion, was correct? —"COUNTING HEADS"

DEAR COUNTESS: A married couple may have two heads, but they have only one pocketbook, so they were correct to assume that in sharing the cost with you, they should pay half and you should pay half. Your mistake was in not having a clear understanding beforehand.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who sends his wife a birthday card which reads, "To My Sweetheart On His Birthday,"—and on the inside it says, "Happy Birthday, Fel-la!"? I was never so hurt in all my life to think that my husband didn't care enough about me to read the card more carefully before he sent it. What should I do? —VERY VERY HURT

DEAR HURT: Come on, now—your husband might have been in a hurry when he bought the card, but he "did" think of you. If you can't bring yourself to kid him about his boo boo good-naturedly, forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I could write a book about what a disappointment my marriage has been. We are so incompatible I couldn't begin to list our differences. We have been married almost three years. I am 21 and my husband is 22, and we have two babies already, which is the only reason I am sticking with him.

Remember When

NOVEMBER 29, 1951
City Council voted $300 to buy a fly machine. Not an airplane but a device to eradicate flies which caused a rash of protests from citizens.

Leo Baker, chairman of the Retail Merchants division of the chamber of commerce, said there'll be two Santa Claus parades, one on Dec. 15 and the second on Dec. 22.

NOVEMBER 29, 1941
Mrs. Maurice Lobott, chairman of the annual Christmas Seal Sale, said the campaign was off to a flying start. Pioneer Club at 123 East Andreas Road, featuring pool and snooker, opened for business.

NOVEMBER 29, 1931
Manager Earle Strebe of the Palm Springs theater announced a benefit show, under auspices of Chamber of Commerce, to raise funds for the unemployed and needy.

Announcement was made that Palm Springs is now a member of the Christmas Seal Sale program and that a portion of the money raised will be used for health matters here.

Abby, I don't deserve any sympathy because my parents practically got down on their hands and knees and begged me to wait before marrying this boy, but I was "in love," and nobody could tell me anything. I'll stay married because of my children, but it isn't going to be easy with a gambling, lying, abusive husband. Pass on my hard-earned experience to other girls under 21. Listen to your parents. They love you more than a 19-year-old boy who has nothing to offer but promises.—AN OLD LADY AT 21.

Everybody's got a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

BOB CONSIDINE:

SAC Crews on 70-Hour Week Guarding Nation

WASHINGTON—If the Strategic Air Command had a union, the nation would be in a fix and so would the free world it protects. The force surely would be on strike, protesting a work-week fit to have caused rebellion in an 18th century Welsh coal field.

SAC ground and air crews, responding to Defense Secretary McNamara's call for a 50 percent step-up in the number of atomic weapons on alert, are now working a 70-hour week. There is, of course, no overtime pay.

Matter of fact, the regular pay for the back-breaking work week is considerably under that received by men doing similar jobs in private industry over a 40-hour 5-day week.

It's a case of the same number of men handling a sharply expanded job.

There is no alternative, apparently, this side of budgetary bankruptcy. Air crews work longer hours today because it costs too much to train additional crews capable of handling the always supremely important and now magnified job.

A B-47 is operated on a mission by three superbly skilled men. It costs $700,000 to develop such a crew, teach it everything it must know. Another huge sum goes into supporting it in the manner to which it must accustom itself if it is to remain cocked and ready at all times.

Impetus of Dedication
To prepare new crews and support them, to handle the increased work, would exhaust air force funds badly needed elsewhere. So the men of SAC make the best of things, impelled by a motive the rest of us often forget—the simple impetus of dedication, and a shopworn but essentially magnificent word, patriotism.

Not all of them stay at their jobs, of course. The demands of their growing families, the understandable feeling that they "seen their duty and done it," the native hunger for creature comforts and the lure of private industry all combine to send thousands of service-trained men marching out of uniform at the end of enlistment periods.

"It takes three years to train a jet bomber's radar technician to do a full day's work, unattended," an Air Force general told us today, chewing on his dead cigar. "To get him to that point costs us $25,000. Then he works out the last year of his enlistment. In effect, we're paying him $25,000 for that year's work, for that's the year he can do his job."

"Then he leaves us, and we have the job of training another boy over the next three years. The Cordier Plan helped some. It cut down a bit on the difference between military and private industry pay and privileges. But there's still a big gap, still a reluctance to re-enlist."

$2 Billion Annually
Five years ago, SAC estimated it was spending $2,000,000,000 a year training men to take the places of those who chose the easier life outside of the uniform.

Another source of grief and misgiving for the man who works so long and so hard to keep his bombing plane in proper condition, ready to observe the 15-minute wheels-up dictum, is the burgeoning legend that the next war is going to be largely operated by buttons.

He must say to himself, as he polishes a ball-bearing the size of the ball in a ball-point pen, a bearing that operates the gizmo that fits into the whizzpo of the grammus on the bomber's coffee pot, "Jeez, maybe I'm in the wrong end of the racket."

We asked an Air Force type about this morale factor, and he snorted:

"If war came tomorrow, manned bomber forces would constitute almost all the retaliatory punch thrown against an enemy. I've seen the figure that 25 percent of that punch would be from ballistic missiles. That's a gross overstatement."

THIS DRAMATIC PHOTO SERIES released by the Department of Defense sequels the life-saving, low altitude, parachute ejection of a Navy officer from a plane that caught fire on landing aboard the attack carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

LT. JOHN T. KRYWAY hurtles into the air—shown a moment after he ejected himself from his FSU-1 Crusader jet after it caught fire while landing on the carrier deck. He was only slightly injured when he landed in the Atlantic.

SECONDS later Kryway's parachute opened—his forward momentum making up for the lack of altitude. His explosive ejection seat was tested by the Air Force Parachute Facility at El Centro with numerous drops into the nearby Salton Sea only months ago.

TWO MORE sequence photos by Louis J. Cera, USN, with a K-20 semi-automatic camera, show Lt. Kryway in survival action that only a short time ago would have meant certain serious injury and probably his death. See story adjacent on this page.

Pilot Lives Through Navy Carrier Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy
Lt. John T. Kryway had his jet fighter all lined up, and it appeared to be just another rough-weather landing on the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.
Conditions were rather bad, with showers and the wind gusting up to 40 miles an hour. But this is not unknown to seagoing pilots.
As the FSU Crusader approached the drop-on area at the ship's stern, however, the vessel suddenly settled in the pitching seas.

Kryway, flying at 150 miles an hour, yanked back the throttle.
His plane slammed onto the deck with much more than the normal impact, and the right wheel was sheered off.

The broken wheel strut, scrubbing across the deck, caught fire from friction. The tail hook caught the arresting cable, but broke under the strain.
As the aircraft careened along the deck, Kryway pushed a button and was hurled 50 feet into the air by the ejection seat. His fast-opening parachute opened,
and he fell into the sea.
A helicopter quickly rescued the pilot, who suffered only minor injuries.

To illustrate a point, the Navy
Wednesday released photographs of the month-old accident. The point:
"The carrier is one of the newer angle-deck models. Kryway therefore was hurled off to one side when he ejected.

On one of the older straight-deck vessels, the Navy said, the pilot probably would have gone directly over the bow and easily could have been sucked under the ship and chewed up by its propellers.
